

The Goat and the Fox

Thomas Frederick Crane

Italian

Easy
2 min read

Once upon a time a goat entered the den of the fox while the latter was absent. At night the fox returned home, and finding the goat fled because frightened by the horns. A wolf passed by, and was also terrified. Then came a hedgehog and entered the den, and pricked the goat with its quills. The goat came out, and the wolf killed it, and the fox ate it.

Read more fairy tales on Fairytalez.com